

ITALY 2006

25th March – Herculaneum

View across the site. The arches in the foreground used to be the docks, now about 600m inland. Below – the buildings were amazingly well preserved as a result of the speed of being buried 20m deep under a pyroclastic flow of hot mud and ash.

